THIS ad. is directed at the man who has all the business in his line in this community.

¶ Mr. Merchant—You say you've got it all. You're selling them all they'll buy, anyhow. But at the same time you would like more business.

¶ Make this community buy more.

¶ Advertise strongly, consistently, judiciously.

¶ Suppose you can buy a lot of washtubs cheap; advertise a big washtub sale in this paper. Put in an inviting picture of a washtub where people can see it the minute they look at your ad. Talk strong on washtubs. And you'll find every woman in this vicinity who has been getting along with a rickety washtub for years and years will buy a new one from you.

¶ That's creative business power.

Where the Iowan Drew the Line.
You may be able to force an old-fashioned man to wear evening dress, but you can't convince him that he is eating dinner at supper time.—Cherokee Times.

Agricultural Information.
You can waken your hired man with an ordinary alarm clock by tying a piece of rope about two feet long to it and sandbagging him with the weapon at the appointed hour.—Exchange.

Serbia's Homesteads.
In Serbia the land belongs to the people, and every grown man has a claim to five acres, which he can neither sell nor have taken from him.
His land and its produce are exempt from all claims for debt. Thus the poorest man in Serbia has always five acres to his credit.

Philosopher Talks.
"People dat tells all dey knows," said Uncle Eben, "den' generally seem to find out much worth tellin'."

No Longer Thrown Away.
Soap-boilers used to have great difficulty in getting rid of a thick, evil-smelling liquid which was the chief by-product of their industry. They ran it into streams and sewers. Presently someone began collecting it and refining it. The result was glycerin as it is known today.

Saving Starch.
It is a pity to waste starch when you have made half a bowlful for the purpose of starching just a few little things, but this can be avoided by letting the starch settle, pouring off the water and then drying the starch in a warm oven. It will thus form into a hard cake and you can use it again.

Voice of Envy.
When you're been walking all day and your feet hurt, some people in automobiles can look and do look devil-ishly, arrogantly comfortable.—Chicago Journal.

Better Leave Them Alone.
"The worst of coaxing people to sing," said Gaunt N. Grimm, "is that they usually yield to the earnest solicitation of their friends and accept the nomination."—Judge.

Daily Thought.
They are such dear familiar feet that go along the path with ours—feet fast or slow, but trying to keep pace; if they mistake we must be mute, not turning to impute grave faults, for they and we have such a little way to go, can be together such a little while upon the way, we must be patient while we may.—George Kilgus.

A Substitute.
Mrs. Pester—"Miss Yellowleaf always has some kind of an animal pet around." Mr. Pester—"A woman has to have something to order about, even if she has no husband."

Territory Unexplored.
In Arabia there is a tract of unexplored territory nearly five times the area of Great Britain, while nearly a quarter of Australia awaits the investigation of civilized man.

Cruel Inquiry.
"I'm suah," said Chollie Softleigh with a drawing lip, "that I don't know what I shall do when I get out of college. Mothah wants me to be a minithah, but I haven't leaned toward lithrachah." "Did you ever think of becoming an actress?" she asked cruelly.
